

The olive and brown-colored coat of the Anubis Baboon helps to hide it in the open grasslands of the African savanna. Baboons spend their days eating grasses and roots but sleep in trees at night for extra protection.